

Database Design

View more

Abstract

The article presents the NIMBY syndrome as a type of a local conflict, taking into account the stage of development of the phenomenon, its levels and methods of mitigation. NIMBY syndrome is described as a conflict affecting the lives of local communities, referring to classical concept of conflict. The article covers also an analysis of investments in renewable energy sources as potentially threatened by NIMBY syndrome.

Keywords / Tags

Key words: renewable energy sources, renewable energy sources, nimby syndrome, nimby syndrome, local conflict, local conflict

Downloads / Links

nr_12_17-23_2.pdf
